

WHAT IS CAPITAL WOMEN IN PHILANTHROPY?

Capital Women in Philanthropy (CWP) is a giving circle. A growing trend in philanthropy, giving circles empower members, particularly women, to play a more significant role in philanthropy than those members could without the financial leverage provided by the group. An outgrowth of investment clubs, giving circles require a minimal amount of time and energy on the part of members, yet result in substantial financial contributions that benefit Capital Health's patients, programs and services.

Members' contributions are reserved in a fund at the Capital Health Foundation. Grant applications are submitted annually by different areas within Capital Health. CWP members will evaluate all applications and submit recommendations to the Foundation for funding.

OUR GOALS

- To encourage philanthropy among women with shared values and to promote women as philanthropists.
- To make grants through the CH Foundation that support CH's mission and vision.
- To recruit a membership that reflects the communities served by CH.
- To advocate for CH and to inform others about opportunities for participating in philanthropy through the CH Foundation.
- To effectively steward the charitable dollars entrusted to the Foundation.

OUR MISSION

Capital Women in Philanthropy is a collective formed to encourage women to pool their philanthropic resources at the CH Foundation to improve programs and services at Capital Health. In doing so, they enrich their own lives as well as the health and well-being of others.

OUR MEMBERSHIP

Our members reflect the diversity of our community and represent grateful patients, nurses, physicians, staff and friends of Capital Health, including business and community partners.

While women who wish to participate in CWP may join at any time, an annual membership event will be held each spring. Participation is encouraged at any of the following membership levels: $250-$499, $500-$999 and $1,000+.

Memberships are renewable annually. Payment can be outright or made in installments and must be paid in full each year by December 31. Members will be listed alphabetically in the Foundation's annual Donor Report and in general listings under giving clubs.
